Executive summary

The present document provides an updated overview of the Communication and Dissemination Plan for the Sup3rForm project, with the objective of ensuring that the project's activities, results, and impacts are effectively communicated to a broad range of relevant audiences throughout its lifecycle.

EUT, through its Research Communications Office (RCO), continues to lead the design and implementation of the communication and dissemination strategy for Sup3rForm. In parallel, all consortium partners actively support these efforts by promoting project activities, sharing outcomes, and contributing to dissemination initiatives.

The plan encompasses a variety of communication and dissemination channels and platforms, including the official project website, tailored communication materials for key events, engagement with both specialised and general media outlets, scientific publications, stakeholder engagement activities, and participation in strategic conferences, fairs, and congresses where the project can be presented and promoted.

This deliverable builds upon the initial Communication and Dissemination Plan by assessing the progress achieved to date and analysing key performance indicators (KPIs). It outlines the activities carried out by the consortium and identifies opportunities to further enhance outreach and engagement for the remaining duration of the project.
